MESSAGE FROM THE SENIOR VICE PRESIDENT OF INSTRUCTIONAL AND STUDENT AFFAIRS

May you live in exciting times. The origin and the sentiment of this statement is still often debated: whether it was an English well-wish or an ancient Chinese curse. Either way – these are truly unprecedented times. Sometimes it feels like we are cursed, sometimes it feels like we were presented with an opportunity, and sometimes it feels like we are experiencing both simultaneously. These mixed sensations ground the college as we look into the recent past and influences our glimpse towards the future as we embark on our next Educational Master Plan 2022-2025.

COVID-19 changed everything. The world seemed to stop in an instant, the defining moment of a generation of human beings that will be captured in history. We are proud as a college in how we navigated the sociohistorical conditions of living through a once-in-a-generation global pandemic. Even though there were no blueprints or strategic plans to prepare for any of this, Allegany College of Maryland's (ACM's) distinctive quality – what we refer to as the longstanding culture of care – ensured we got through this crisis and got through it together.

Moving forward, we will build upon the successes of the previous three years while identifying new areas for academic growth. This next Master Plan must provide a new academic vision for the subsequent three years and will include the following educational and instructional priorities.

Mental Health - We discovered that our work to create a Holistic Mental Health Network for students and employees prior to COVID better positioned the college to get through the pandemic in one piece. Before March 2020, we were convinced of the importance of mental health services for retention of our students. After, we are even more convinced of its importance for the ongoing success of our students and the work/life balance of our employees. This essential work will continue.

Technology - Prior to COVID, we had talked about how ACM will have to intentionally navigate the digital transformation caused by technology. The pandemic created an inflection point in which we all had to quickly embrace technology in order to maintain continuity of teaching and support services for learning. The result was a collective embrace of technology and growing comfort and expertise in its use. By necessity, we quickly increased the technological competence of our faculty and staff, and we learned that students want flexibility in their learning opportunities. Our students' life challenges demand the flexibility that only technology can afford, and we aim to meet this exigency without losing the crucial human connection. We must expand our flexible learning, hybrid, and online classes to meet the current and future needs of our students. We must also keep our focus on the far technological horizon. We must intentionally leverage technology to improve learning and to increase the success of our students. We must explore emerging instructional technologies now, instead of waiting. We must also address the digital divide by assisting students' access to devices and high-speed internet. We must strive for digital literacy and digital fluency of our students (in addition to content mastery), while simultaneously striving for digital transformation of the college. However, in all of this, we must not lose the human aspect to the equation.

Diversity, Equity, Inclusion, and Justice – We must eliminate any equity gaps in achievement by race, socioeconomic status, and first-generation status. We must focus on those students who are most at-risk, underserved, under-represented, Pell-eligible, and post-traditional to ensure they succeed at the same levels as their peers. It is not just an imperative du jour from higher education pundits: we have a moral imperative. Additionally, program, institutional, state, and federal accreditors forecast this importance. We must ensure that these most at-risk students not only have full, robust, and welcoming opportunities for access, but that we provide equally stellar opportunities for them to succeed.

Regionality – Even though we are preparing students for a global reality, we must simultaneously ensure preparation for a regional job market with strong and relevant programs. We have learned that strong collaboration and partnership is needed in rural areas due to the necessity of sharing access to limited resources. ACM must be instrumental in bringing together institutions of higher education during a time of increased competition. The imperative for collaboration is clear.

Academic Integrity – As a college, we must reckon with a downside of technology that was exacerbated by the pandemic: online services that produce original papers for a fee (contract cheating), the integrity and security of any online assessment, and quickly emerging AI that can produce papers that elude detection. We must clarify our approach as an institution to one that balances accountability while maintaining relationships with students; that assists students in understanding that academic integrity is more about the learning and the mastery of the knowledge, and less about the enforcement and punitive practices. Ironically, we must explore whether technology can be the solution to the problem.

Blueprint for Education – Maryland's legislative imperative will transform PK-12 education in Maryland to rival the best in the world: universal PK-3 and PK-4, more early college offerings, career and college ready by 10th grade, eliminate equity gap in education, increased professional development for teachers, and more. ACM will continue to be an educational partner of choice with Allegany County Public Schools and assist and expand offerings to meet the demands of this once-in-a-generation funded mandate.

Community and Civic Engagement –
“We believe in democracy as a way of life, and in both the freedoms and responsibilities inherent in a democracy.
We believe in preparation for active participation in a democracy.”

This stated ACM institutional value demonstrates the need to create spaces where students can attain civic knowledge but also be given opportunities for civic action. We must foster their sense of agency – that they can make a difference in their communities and what they do matters. We must continue to provide students with opportunities to work with others who are different from them but encourage them to build bridges across this difference. Upon their founding, community colleges were referred to as “democracy’s schools.” We must continue to be reminded of this civic mission and live up to this noble call.

In conclusion, I have hopefully been adequate to the task in describing where we have been and where we are academically going as an institution. The college must continue to maintain its role as being a “steward of place,” meaning we will continue to be responsive to our community and its citizens, to our local culture, to our businesses and industry. But even though some may consider us only a community college, we also have an innovative role in leading and transforming our community to a more hopeful and prosperous future. Given our amazing faculty and staff, our deeply held ethos of a culture of care, and our commitment to the learning centered mission – it is clear that Allegany College of Maryland is up to the challenge as we “engage our future.”

Sincerely,

Dr. Kurt Hoffman
Senior Vice President of Instructional and Student Affairs

PURPOSE OF THE EDUCATIONAL MASTER PLAN

At Allegany College of Maryland, we believe that the highest aspirations for education are liberation of minds and transformation of lives. Being educated is not solely a matter of being knowledgeable about certain subject material, but about how we understand one another and the world around us. Beyond promoting learning that opens the mind to new information, institutions of higher education are able to facilitate discussion and collaboration among their members, thereby fostering a sense of local, national, and global community.

- Our challenge is to meet these lofty ambitions while simultaneously preparing students for real-world vocations that provide family-sustaining wages. We accept that balancing the philosophical understanding of the purpose of education with its concrete purpose — namely empowering students with the skills necessary to be successful in their chosen careers — is essential to the college’s mission.

Generally, the aim of Allegany College of Maryland’s 2022–2025 Educational Master Plan is to provide an educational vision of the college as well as establish priorities that aim to enhance learning and teaching. The writers of the Educational Master Plan intend that this document will be used as guidance for other planning processes across the college, including but not limited to the Strategic Plan and ISA Annual Objectives, the latter of which will function as the dynamic action plan for this document. But, perhaps more importantly, the Educational Master Plan aims to cultivate a culture that embraces the learning college model and encourages educational innovation that will transform the college.

INSTITUTIONAL PLANNING 2022-2025

The Strategic Master Plan and the Educational Master Plan (EDMP) are the primary planning documents of the institution: each will inform and be informed by the other. The Instructional and Student Affairs Annual Objectives will supply the action plan for the EDMP and provide necessary linkages to the institution's Strategic Plan. Likewise, the EDMP will inform and require alignment by the other major institutional plans, including the Fiscal Plan, the Facilities Plan, the Technology Plan, the Strategic Enrollment Management Plan, and the Marketing Plan. This document will be an evolving document to show where we are and where we need to grow. The solid arrows in the graphic reveal a direct connection between the EDMP and the other plans, signifying the bi-directional influence. Multiple arrows between the plans intimate a strong connection, as seen between the EDMP and the Strategic Plan. The dotted arrows reveal a more indirect relationship between the plans.

1. Fiscal Plan – The Fiscal Plan is an operational plan that falls under Finance. This Allegany College of Maryland operational document is informed by the Budget Advisory Committee, which has bylaws. The Budget Advisory Committee ensures that resource allocations are appropriately aligned with the ACM Strategic Plan and other institutional master plans (Education, Technology, Facilities, Fiscal, etc.) and that evidence-based decisions are employed effectively in financial planning, budgeting, and resource allocation. There is a budget request form that requires requests to be linked to data and planning documents, and they must tie to the college’s strategic goals and mission.

2. Facilities Plan – The Facilities Plan is an operational plan that falls under Finance. This operational plan is not informed by any ACM committee; however, there is a budget request form that requires facilities requests to be linked to data and planning documents, and they must tie to the college’s strategic goals and mission.

3. Technology Plan – The Technology Plan is an operational plan that falls under Finance. This operational plan is informed by the Institutional Technology Advisory Committee. This committee’s bylaws and procedures require proposals and requests to be aligned with the ACM Strategic Plan and other institutional master plans.

4. Strategic Enrollment Management Plan (SEMP) – The Strategic Enrollment Management Plan is ideally an operational plan that is a collaboration among multiple stakeholders to maximize college growth. The stakeholders work collaboratively to ensure that the college is strategically preparing to meet the future enrollment, financial, and academic needs of students. The college has invariably created a Strategic Enrollment Management Plan but chose to currently replace the SEMP with the Strategic Plan Priority One: Student Success and Access. The Strategic Plan Priority One therefore functions as the SEMP in addition to the Enrollment Management Workgroup that meets regularly prior to the start of semesters. Additionally, Instructional and Student Affairs (ISA) has targeted Online Nursing LPN to RN, Athletics, and Career and Technical Education, and Workforce Development enrollments for growth potential.

5. Marketing Plan - The Strategic Marketing Plan is an operational plan that falls under the Advancement Division. It is an internal, confidential document that is linked to the ACM Strategic Plan and is consistent with the Educational Master Plan and the overall mission of ACM. It includes the marketing of Learning, Teaching, Programs and Courses, Educational Support Services, and Resources. Room for growth would be to have a process and procedure to document evidence of linkages between such marketing strategies and the ACM Strategic Plan and other institutional master plans. This could happen under the Enrollment Management [Operational Assistance] Committee if it was restructured to have bylaws and a process to review the Educational Master Plan linkages.

Educational Master Plan – Recap from 2018 plan and COVID Impact

The Educational Master Plan 2019-2022 and the corresponding ISA Annual Objectives were dedicated to the advancement of three broad objectives:

- Student Success improvement
- Ensuring quality faculty and staff experience
- Improvement of student experience

Each of the objectives were targeted by initiatives each year with an end of year report produced by the Senior Vice President of Instructional and Student Affairs (ISA). Also, during this period (notably 2020-2022), the COVID pandemic directly affected all institutional operations including the Annual Objectives, some of which were necessarily delayed or modified. From the previously identified Initiatives, this section highlights key successes, shows works still in progress, and identifies projects adversely affected by COVID.

Successes:

- Determine & Address Mental Health Issue Impacts: Considerable progress built upon past enhancements to mental health services to students during this time. The Office of Student & Legal Affairs created the new position of Student Support Coordinator who is responsible for overseeing the student counseling program, alcohol and drug education/compliance, and working across the college to identify and develop intervention plans for high-risk students. The Mental Health Retention Task Force developed and published the Holistic Mental Health Network Graphic (one each for the Cumberland Campus and for the Bedford County Campus); and members presented the Holistic Graphic at Professional Development Day and Rotary Radio Day. The Student Support Coordinator continued organizing Mental Health First Aid training for interested employees. Counseling (on-campus and off-site) for students enrolled in credit courses continued thanks to the ongoing partnership with UPMC-Western Maryland. Mind-Body skills have been integrated into several Allied Health Curriculums, and the one-credit course is available to all students as an elective. Noncredit groups and activities are available on a regular basis and upon request. ACM boasts 23 trained facilitators of which seven are certified in Mind-Body Medicine by the Center for Mind-Body Medicine. Three of ACM's employees serve as the Center's National Faculty.

In progress:

- Navigate: Seven employee teams continued their work on the implementation and use of this software platform with emphasis on specific operational tasks. Targeted student communications (emails and texts), student scheduling, and retention alerts have been the primary functions of this platform with more in development and more education of faculty and staff to maximize the College's investment.

- Guided Pathways: ISA identified Meta Majors then completed and published an informational Graphic for students and advisors. Additional features can/will utilize Navigate. Strategic scheduling remains to be addressed.
- Student Services Student Learning Outcomes: operational units continue developing, implementing, and tracking learning outcomes for experiences and activities outside the classroom.

COVID impact:

- o Enrollment Priority Task Force + Title III Consultant recommendations: These will be carried over with a goal to create a Transfer Plan and to create a transfer identity for the College
- o Institutionalize Learning-Centered culture: In FY20 and FY21, the TLC and LC-TLC necessarily slowed down; both projects are actively renewed starting in FY22 with demonstrably positive outcomes including reduced feelings of faculty isolation, greater understanding that advising is teaching, higher student-centeredness in course syllabi among TLC graduates, improved understanding of services, and how work impacts students, greater camaraderie with colleagues.

Successes:

- Increased progress towards Technological Competence HEERF funds provided stipends to faculty to prepare for virtual instruction, IT's Technology Plan and BYOD (Bring Your Own Device) reviewed by ISA; Professional Development Day had 12 technology tracks with 35% of all attendees

- Professional Development Day: Crowd sourcing and leveraging internal expertise at ACM, along 4 presentational tracks (Learning College, Technology, Assessment, and Worklife Balance). May 2022 – 32 sessions averaging 4.62/5.0. May 2021 – 35 sessions averaging 4.77/5.0.
- Staff mentoring: A mentoring model was created and implemented with Human Resources for new employees to be welcomed and given a trained mentor for campus tours, introductions, lunch, and ongoing guidance/support for the first six months of employment.
- Improve work-life balance: Multiple initiatives focused on this important institutional priority; they included mind-body groups, "Let's Talk About it" sessions; Professional Development Day (i.e., 7 sessions devoted to work-life balance); and Faculty Workload Group addressed responses from faculty (specifically career program directors) to the annual employee satisfaction survey (e.g., modified release time criteria)

In progress:

- Determining instructional Quality metrics: The foundation of this initiative was successful, but full implementation is still pending. Key Performance Indicators and a "report card" with aggregate student evaluation scores were developed; however, use of the KPIs and report card for faculty evaluations was placed on hold due to COVID
- Implementing model for faculty advising: Work from the NACADA task force remains to be implemented, although an advising syllabus and plan were created; this project was placed on moratorium due to pending Navigate implementation.

COVID impact:

- o Fully implemented mentoring model: Volunteers were solicited from faculty, but a meeting was impossible; instead, faculty development coordinators provided mentoring connections.

IMPROVEMENT OF STUDENT EXPERIENCE

Successes:

- Increased access opportunities: HEERF and CARES Act funding assisted students and continues assisting students in numerous, important ways. Cash reimbursements, housing refunds, computer loan programs, and outside wi-fi access helped students access their education at ACM.
- Become a culturally competent college: In addition to the campus-wide work reflected in the annual Diversity Report, the DEIJ Committee successfully designated non-gender specific bathrooms in each building (except the Athletic Building which has no single occupancy bathrooms), awarded the first DEI Initiative Award for the use of “real world” social justice issues [in Math 109 – Probability & Statistics to], encouraged students to think critically, and participated in many webinars/trainings over the cycle. Institutional talks occurred with neighbor colleges and EAB to explore “Moonshot for Equity”; however, it was not successful due to withdrawal of our intended regional partners.
- Fully institutionalized civic engagement: ISA renamed the former “Service Learning & Civic Engagement Office” to “Campus to Community Center”; the CCC Director collaborated with campus partners to submit a successful application to Carnegie Classification for Community Engagement. These efforts yielded great success; during this cycle, service learning/civic engagement doubled (i.e., the number of courses, students, and hours).

In progress:

- Increasing progress toward technological competence: HEERF funds allowed stipends to be paid for faculty and their professional development for virtual instruction during Covid which resulted in overall improvement of technological skills by anyone teaching courses. Drafts of the Technology Plan from IT and their BYOD (Bring Your Own Device) initiative were reviewed by ISA; connections between the IT plan and the EDMP and ISA Annual initiatives remain to be made in upcoming planning documents. The concept of Digital Transformation was developed with introductions beginning via Professional Development Day and was identified as an ISA goal.

COVID impact:

- o Create alternative credentialing in workforce development: Continuing Education was significantly affected by the pandemic with most workforce development offerings being cancelled, losing nearly 40% of Workforce Training between 2020 and 2021. The exception to the rule that kept Continuing Education from completely tanking was the closure of the Verso Mill in 2019 and the retraining of nearly 70 displaced workers during the pandemic. 2022 saw an increase in FTEs with 2023 expected to return to near pre-pandemic levels. This goal will be continued.
- o Identify and accomplish SSLOs in all student service units: professional development was offered, but all student services were in flux during the pandemic rendering the creation and/or tracking of most SSLO's moot – until normal (or new normal) operations resume across the College.

2022-2025 Themes

The 2022 – 2025 EDMP is guided by four themes, which represent the organizational framework of work in ISA. Any initiative must address one or more of these themes: learning, teaching, relevant & professional curricula standards, and resources & support. Each theme will be assessed, and the results of the analysis of the assessment data will be communicated to those directly interacting with students, to the unit or academic program, and to the college community.

LEARNING: ACM assists students in their educational success in preparation for transfer, work, or life in a diverse and global society while providing infrastructure that is accessible, supporting student retention, and enhancing the learning success for the student.

The core theme of learning focuses on assuring that students leave ACM with the preparation that they need for their next step which may be career, transfer, or achieving a personal enrichment goal. Through the learning that can occur in every interaction with students, in both academic and non-academic settings, ACM empowers students to succeed in twenty-first century society. ACM promotes diversity, intellectual curiosity, and critical thinking to provide students with the necessary skills to become lifelong learners.

Assessment: data obtained through program review, student learning assessment, evaluation of general educational goals, and unit reviews from areas under the ISA office, RISC surveys, and data from LC-TLC.

TEACHING: ACM cultivates a climate that supports every employee, fosters the learning centered college, and enhances diversity in teaching and learning.

The core theme of teaching focuses on maintaining ACM's learning-centered culture while becoming an innovator in that space, overcoming the challenges of a post-Covid academia. We recognize that teaching can occur in every interaction with students, in academic and non-academic settings. This includes access to relevant educational and technological resources, counseling, and academic support services, correlating student activity with success, retention, and completion.

Assessment: data obtained from teaching evaluations, faculty KPI's, DFW rates, student service learning/ civic engagement reflections, and in satisfaction surveys of employees and students. LC-TLC, data obtained through student services student learning outcomes (SSSLO's), and correlation with success, retention, and completion.

RELEVANT & PROFESSIONAL CURRICULA STANDARDS: ACM ensures quality and academic integrity of courses and curriculum.

The core theme of relevant and professional curricula standards focuses on delivering innovative and successful programs in the academic and continuing education arena. As appropriate, curricula will be aligned with COMAR, professional, third-party accrediting criteria, economic needs, and industry standards. Alignment of the general education outcomes with all courses and curricula promote program offerings that require all graduates of ACM to obtain these goals. The College serves as a community cornerstone and emphasizes excellence through regular assessment, evidence-based teaching practices, and a commitment to academic rigor and academic integrity. ACM is dedicated to creating a culture of integrity with ethical standards among students, faculty, and staff to ensure quality courses and curriculum.

Assessment: data obtained from external accreditors of programs, program review, RISC, advisory committee input, surveys of area employers, transfer data, and success of transferring students. In addition, internal surveys of student and employee satisfaction will contribute valuable information.

RESOURCES & SUPPORT: ACM seeks to ensure quality educational programs while maintaining fiscal responsibility and allocating resources to support the Institutional Priorities.

The core theme of resources focuses on the responsible use and stewardship of all resources, including fiscal, personnel, and natural resources. This requires ensuring that programs have adequate resources to effectively deliver educational programs. Furthermore, the College is committed to providing support to students and employees that will foster a culture of success and personal wellness.

Assessment: data obtained through program review and unit assessments.

Development of the “Educational Master Plan 2022-2025”

This first-ever Educational Master Plan was created in 2015 to guide the College’s Instructional and Student Affairs decision-making and budget processes. That three-year planning document and the following version of the EDMP have guided all the educational aspirations of the college. Like the previous versions, the “Educational Master Plan 2022-2025” is designed as a living document that includes Annual Objectives that will be assessed and updated each year based on implementation successes and changes in priorities. The goal of the EDMP is for ISA to have a strong planning document that is flexible enough to be responsive.

Over the summer of 2022, the Educational Master Planning Committee finished the final assessment for the 2019-2022 Educational Master Plan Annual Objectives and discussed changes that should be made in the next Master Plan for the following three years. While the Committee finalizes the three-year planning document that will guide the College from 2022-2025, ISA leadership will be gathering the next set of Annual Objectives from all academic programs and administrative units that are part of ISA. Each program and unit will contribute goals or objectives they will be assessing in the coming year to the overall ISA Annual Objectives plan. The “Educational Master Plan 2022-2025” is expected to be finalized and published April 2023, and the Annual Objectives will be renewed every August.

Development of ISA Annual Objectives (August 2022, 2023, and 2024)

The organizational structure of ISA is described in more detail in [another section] of the “Educational Master Plan 2022-2025.” Eight ISA Area Leaders play a key role in developing ISA Annual Objectives in consultation with their staff: Dr. Mihaela Wood, Dean of Arts & Sciences; Dr. Bill Rocks, Dean of Career Education; to be named Dean of Enrollment and Educational Services; Dr. Renee Connor, Dean of Student & Legal Affairs; Rebecca Ruppert, Dean of Continuing Education & Workforce Development; Rick Cooper, Associate Dean of Nursing Programs; Jennifer Engelbach, Executive Director of Enrollment Services and Advising; and Tara DeVore, Director of TRIO: Pathways for Success. These eight Area Leaders report directly to the Senior Vice President of Instructional and Student Affairs and are responsible for overseeing multiple units and functions within ISA.

- Eight ISA Area Leaders meet with their Administrative Unit and Academic Program directors to discuss their own assessment plans and determine which, if any, of the unit/program objectives they have selected for the coming year fit within the established EDMP Goals. For administrative units, goals and the objectives which operationalize those goals are derived from Comprehensive Unit Review, which is a five-year cycle; additional initiatives can be developed apart from Unit Review and/or as additional needs are identified. Area leaders will insert program- or unit-specific objectives into ISA Annual Objectives under the goal that each support.

- After the overall ISA Annual Objectives have been compiled, the eight ISA Area Leaders share them with their staff. Potentially provide forums for questions and discussion.
  - Publish ISA Annual Objectives 2022-2023 to Employee Portal on ISA SharePoint
- All ISA areas and ISA-led committees begin implementing ISA Annual Objectives

Preparing for year-end progress reporting (April 2023, 2024, and 2025)

- SVPISA and representatives from EDMP Committee consult with the Executive Director of Institutional Planning and Effectiveness to plan for end-of-academic year data collection.
- Eight ISA Area Leaders communicate to their unit/program staff what data will be needed and the deadline.

Preparing End-of-Year Progress Chart for ISA Annual Objectives (May through June 2023, 2024, and 2025)

- Program and Unit directors submit data (in format requested by EDMP Committee) to ISA Area Leader.
- Each Area Leader will report progress on goals and objectives by typing directly into the End-of-Year Progress Chart for ISA Annual Objectives.
  - SVPISA reviews and finalizes End-of-Year Progress chart, seeking additional input from ISA Area Leaders as necessary.
  - SVPISA Shares “End-of-Year Progress Report for ISA Annual Objectives” with EDMP Committee to determine the following:
    - Each summer, discuss progress toward reaching that year’s ISA Annual Objectives (Complete; In-Progress; Ongoing; Not Started)
    - Determine whether to include unfilled objectives in next year’s ISA Annual Objectives

July 2025 – Start next round for new ISA Annual Objectives and preparation of the “Educational Master Plan 2025-2028”

EDMP 2022-2025 Goals

The following overarching goals were established in consideration of the College’s Mission, Vision and Values, in alignment with Allegany College of Maryland’s Strategic Plan, and emerging Equity Framework.

1. Support Diversity, Equity, Inclusion, and Justice (DEIJ) efforts and endeavors in ISA areas.
2. Foster student academic success.
3. Broaden student experience, growth, and resilience.
